

Building the Sydney Harbour Bridge (1951)

NARRATOR: In 1923, work began on the bridge. An arch of steel grew from both sides of the harbour.

In 1930, the arms that were to hold the decking met.

Chief designer, John Bradfield, checked the locking of the arch.